RE: Resolution to ban seismic airgun activities within the MBNMS- Support

Dear SAC Chair Schmidt, Monterey Bay Sanctuary Advisory Council Members and Superintendent Michel:

We the undersigned 28,417 residents of the United States write urging you to support and implement the proposed Sanctuary Advisory Council resolution to ban seismic airgun activities within the Monterey Bay National Marine Sanctuary (MBNMS) and its surrounding waters, while assessing other sources of underwater noise, as a proactive measure to protect the diverse marine life that calls our national sanctuary waters home. As one of the nation's 14 national marine sanctuaries, Monterey Bay is recognized nationwide for its productivity and the sheer number of marine life species it supports. As you are aware, the MBNMS hosts 34 species of marine mammals, 525 species of fish, countless species of seabirds, and provides critical habitat for endangered Pacific leatherback sea turtles. As advisors and managers of our shared ocean resources, we are relying on you to ensure this ocean ecosystem remains healthy and to protect its marine life from harm.

Seismic surveys are commonly conducted using airguns to identify extractive resources below the seafloor. Using compressed air to generate intense pulses of sound, these airguns are 100,000 times more intense than a jet engine. Loud blasts are conducted on a reoccurring basis, often going off every ten seconds, for 24 hours a day, sometimes for weeks on end. Numerous scientific studies have documented that the noise produced by these impulsive, short duration sounds from airgun surveys deleteriously affects marine mammals through temporary and permanent hearing impairment, abandonment of habitat, disruption of mating and feeding, beach strandings, organ or tissue damage, and commonly results in death. Airgun noise can also change behavior of commercially valuable fish species, kill fish eggs and larvae, and decrease catch rates for coastal fisheries. The effects of low frequency sounds on marine life are also of concern. Low frequency sound can travel thousands of miles away from the source, interrupting whale calls and altering their behavior even at great distances. Low frequency airgun sounds are particularly concerning for endangered baleen whales—including humpback whales and blue whales—and sea turtles.

Traveling for hundreds to thousands of miles, sounds from airgun surveys can mask vital communication in marine mammals, affecting species that would otherwise migrate into sanctuary waters during a portion of their lifecycle. Closing large areas permanently to seismic surveys is one of the most effective ways to protect vulnerable habitats and species. The areas prohibiting seismic activity must be large enough to create a buffer area between the airgun source and the sanctuary to avoid harm to species inside the sanctuary boundaries. Such a ban would send a clear message to other resource managers and the public that seismic testing using airguns is simply incompatible with marine resource protection and hopefully will inspire other sanctuaries and entities to implement similar regulatory protections.

Last year the California Coastal Commission took a stand by denying a permit request to conduct seismic testing with airguns off Central California, and we commend the sanctuary for registering its concerns. Moving forward, it is time to take a proactive stand by prohibiting this inherently damaging activity rather than simply reacting to future seismic testing proposals.

The marine life within the MBNMS is a public resource, and as such we are relying on you to ensure these waters are managed in a way that keeps the ocean ecosystem healthy and protects the incredibly diverse marine life in the area from harm. In summary, we ask that you adopt the resolution to ban high-energy seismic surveys while assessing other sources of underwater noise in the MBNMS and surrounding waters, and implement regulations to enforce such a ban.

Sincerely,
