Re: Enforcement of National Marine Sanctuaries Regulations

Dear Mr. Basta:

It has been more than a year since a number of new regulatory changes to Gulf of the Farallones (GFNMS) and Monterey Bay (MBNMS) National Marine Sanctuary regulations have been published in the Federal Register (Nov. 20, 2008). Despite the enhanced regulations, enforcement has remained at status quo. Our sanctuaries have witnessed the benefits of a uniformed enforcement officer at MBNMS and see the need to establish uniformed personnel dedicated to the GFNMS management region.

The MBNMS has had a Fisheries Enforcement Officer (FEO) assigned since 2003. What started as an experiment has proved a necessary asset for resource protection and is highly effective, but clearly over tasked. The single FEO stationed at Monterey, CA is responsible for 6,094 square miles and is often requested to assist with enforcement efforts in the GFNMS. The demands on the FEO have increased since the passing of the 2008 regulations.

The GFNMS and MBNMS Advisory Councils jointly request an additional uniformed enforcement officer dedicated to the GFNMS management region. This includes the GFNMS and the northern coastline of the MBNMS. The FEO would logically be assigned in the San Francisco Bay area and would support sanctuary response objectives. This would include a number of resource protection concerns such as: white shark protection, marine mammal and seabird protection, endangered species protection, and enforcement of multiple sanctuary and other federal regulations that protect our resources. The addition of a second uniformed enforcement officer would alleviate the northern response demands on the Monterey FEO, allowing him to dedicate patrols and enforcement efforts in the MBNMS.

In addition, the Advisory Councils jointly request that this letter be forwarded to NOAA Administrator, Dr. Jane Lubchenco and NOAA Office of Law Enforcement (OLE) Director, Mr. Dale Jones. Our sanctuaries are proud of the partnership with OLE and fully endorse the use of a FEO in sanctuaries to support sanctuary initiatives, permits, and objectives through dedicated enforcement.

Thank you for your time and consideration of this request.

Sincerely,
